

Larry Laycock

Larry has extensive experience as lead trial counsel in complex and intellectual property litigation. His extensive experience in the trial practice has yielded verdicts in excess of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) and successful resolution of intellectual property disputes prior to litigation and trial. His litigation practice includes patent, trademark, trade secret, trade dress, copyright and related complex litigation matters. He also has substantial experience in appellate, transactional, licensing, as well as preparation of legal opinions relative to intellectual property.

His practice involves a broad scope of intellectual property counseling and litigation, including successful representation of clients in trademark, trade dress, copyright, trade secret, patent and trademark opposition, contract and licensing.

Larry has counseled clients in a broad scope of technologies, including pharmaceutical, chemical, biotechnology and life sciences, material sciences, chemical deposition used in integrated circuit manufacturing, electronic data storage, medical devices, nutritional supplements, exercise equipment, thin film deposition, and complex chemical and polymer science, among others.

He has successfully represented his clients' interests in federal courts throughout the United States and before arbitration and mediation panels and has coordinated enforcement of his clients' international patent portfolios throughout Latin America, Europe and Asia. He has successfully handled cases before the Utah Court of Appeals, the Utah Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the International Trade Commission, the United States Supreme Court, as well as the European Patent Office and the United Kingdom's High Court of Justice, Chancery Division Patents Court.

During law school, Larry was a member of the National Moot Court Team, contributing author of the Best Brief in the Nation competition, and winner of the American College of Trial Lawyers Medal for Excellence in Advocacy. He also received the A.H. Christensen Memorial Advocacy Award for Excellence in Advocacy.

Prior to joining MB, Larry was a twenty-one year Equity Shareholder at a major Salt Lake City-based IP firm, where he served as a member of the Board of Directors. In his spare time, Larry enjoys traveling, being with his family, reading and writing books with his wife Lisa. They are the authors of three novels and are currently working on a fourth.
